The world needs to be reminded that We are not created to compete against other, but to support each other on our personal quests for truth; That separation is unnatural as it is to be surrounded by many people constantly; That pop culture tries to make us addicted, and addictions make you a slave, unhappy, because your attention is on something with no meaning or purpose, and you lose your true identity, desire, mission, and you adopt a character that is not the one your soul needs to develop and grow, a character whose main concern is how he is perceived by other, to be successful, beautiful, rich and powerful in society's eyes.
