From the most basic first step (finding yourself dressed and ready for activity) to more advanced problems like fitness plateaus and mobility-limiting injuries, there are countless things that can stand in the way of achieving your fitness goals.

But at the end of the day, those things are standing in the way of much more than your fitness goals. They're standing in the way of you becoming. . . you. Your very best self. The self that inside, you know you are, but outside, you're still getting there. As your trainer, it's my job to give you the boost you need to get there a little bit faster.

A little about me and my business-

My name is Jen and I am a National Academy of Sports Medicine Certified Personal Trainer and owner of Upward Spiral Fitness and Nutrition Coaching. I also hold NASM certifications in Corrective Exercise (CES) and Fitness Nutrition (FNS).

My mission as a fitness and nutrition coach is to educate my clients about exercise, diet, and maintaining a healthy lifestyle, while empowering them to make the most of their abilities: through knowledge, direction and encouragement. I inspire clients to take an active interest in accomplishing their goals, and I welcome their input and feedback throughout the entire training process. Each training session is a collaboration working together to make things happen. As your coach, I will be motivating you, giving a healthy dose and giving you the tools to reach your goals. We will be training with weights, resistance bands and have fun while doing it. I will be about you and your goals, your nutrition and your health along with the ability to do things properly. I will be about you day after day.

I specialize in creating full body workouts that will help you achieve your goals in an effective and efficient way so that you can continue on with your busy day. I will teach you to work smarter, not harder. I want to help you unleash the best version of yourself.

Working with Upward Spiral Fitness guarantees that you will be a personal trainer that is personally interested in your advancement. Be able to get personalized training in a private studio gym without waiting around for equipment.
