Obviously this accomplished musician is missing something from the flyer.

THE PROFANITY IS THE NAME OF A DIFFERENT BAND.

Maybe they arent the most talented, and maybe you can outplay every member of the band on their own instrument, but they are promoting a show, getting experience playing live, and at least putting the effort forth to get people to hear their music. Either way, they didnt name the other band, probably just booked the show with the venue, and theres no reason to berate someone for trying.

unless youre bitter that youre a washed up has been.

leave them be, and let them learn their own lessons about music and music business. its hard enough as it is without people like you tearing the music scene.
