Best New Guitarist In A Decade --- Rolling Stone Magazine (a long time ago)

New York Guitar Guru -- The Village Voice

I have been teaching Classical/Jazz/Rock for years since Music School and a real professional musician whose recordings and videos can be bought in any music store. I am not an out of work musician teaching because I don't have gigs. I do teach privately one day each week because I have much to offer and enjoy teaching. If I had to teach for a living, I wouldn't be properly qualified to be a teacher. All styles rock, classical, jazz, finger styles, acoustic/folk and traditional or jazz theory.

I currently teach at Fullerton College and I have previously taught at eleven Universities and colleges that reviewed my teaching skills every semester before renewing my contract including the State University of New York, Syracuse University, Volunteer State Community College, and SAE Institute (Chair, Music Business Program now offering ACCSC Accredited Degrees) including several Music Industry and Entertainment Law courses (I am a non-practicing licensed attorney in NY, CT, TN). Check me out on rate my professors.

I don't take credit for the hard work of my students over the past years that have received Masters Degrees in Music that are music professors at colleges such as Cazenovia College, The New School, or Manhattan College of Music, or my students that are on almost every major record label including but not limited to Sony, Elektra, and RCA. They did the work, I only showed them the path of professional careers or up and coming players that wish to advance their musical skills with no formal music background.

performing and recording credits as the guitar solo and/or musical director for 9 Gold and Platinum award winning household name rock, r&b, and blues musical artists ranging from Pearl Scharfer, The Hollies,
