I am looking for somebody to help with some classic RPG coding using Gamemaker. This is a Salary Commision job, meaning that you get paid after the game is finished. Although, I may pay a little before it's complete. I do some coding myself, but I have so many projects to manage right now, that I'm looking to speed things up a bit with some help.

This is not a significant part-time job. It's just a few hours here and there. This is also not a huge money-making job. So if you're somebody with lots of professional experience, this is probably not for you. I can't afford that kind of help. If you're a highschooler with some coding skills, you're welcome to apply.

Most of the work can be done from you're own home if you have your own computer. Having you're own computer is not required though.

No artistic skills are needed. This is just a coding position.

This game will be made for android devices and smartphones. If you have already made any aps of any kind, that's a plus.

If you're interested, email me a demo of something you've made or whip something together that shows you know your stuff. Again, artistic skills are not needed, I don't care if it's just blocks moving around. I'm just looking at.
