I am fostering a one and a half year old sun conure, he has never been DNA tested but we are pretty sure he is a male. His name is dill and he is a character! He knows a few words: step up, christmas and a few more. He has never bitten and is such a sweet bird, like most conures he LOVES to be the center of attention.

Poor Dill has been through so many homes in his young life the only reason why is because he is LOUD. Which is not his fault he is a conure and when they are not the center of attention they can be incredibly loud. He mostly screams when you first leave and enter a room so best not to keep him near the front door. He quiets down when you speak to him but it is a piercing scream.

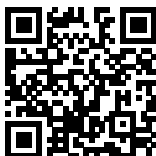

He comes with his cage and a medley of food and toys. His adoption fee is 500 for everything. ONLY SOMEONE WITH BIRD EXPERIENCE. I want Dills next home to be his.
