Long story short; I had to recently put my other cat down, due to age. DB (age 6 - pictured) is a sweet, loving, playful and friendly cat who is used to having another animal around.

I am not home much, due to travel for work, and it's not fair to keep her in a lonely place by herself.

As much as it pains me to have to give her away, it would be for her best interest to find her a home with other animals. (Or at the very least, someone who will be around more than several days a month.)

I am looking for a caring person/family who would embrace her as their own. DB gets along well with other animals, (obviously she would need to acclimate first), that includes dogs. (Her first "best friend" was an old roommate's dog years ago)

At any rate, if you fit the criteria, please let me know. My time is limited, so please only contact me if you're serious about this adoption.

Thank your for your.
