I've been wanting to get a dinner club together forever... finally getting around to it!

THE GENERAL IDEA: Looking for new foodie friends (not hard to find in Nola) who would like to get together once a month or two for a dinner party to meet new friends, try out new recipes, share wine, have internationally themed dinners, and possibly incorporate a cooking lesson should someone feel inspired. We can rotate dinners at member's homes or at any interesting plausible venue.

ME: 36 yo professional living in Mid-City. Lover of travel, food, outdoor adventures, dinner parties, books (the ones made out of paper), antiques, dogs, and pretty much all things fabulous (including New Orleans).

YOU: You're interesting to talk to and have few dietary restrictions (or are least you're not obnoxious about the ones you have). Likely you are a professional, definitely you are open-minded and fun.

Males and females of all ages welcome (no children please). No drugs.

Email me some details about yourself if you're interested then we'll coordinate the first.
