My mom bought my kids two small hermit crabs without my knowledge while they were on vacation with her and we really don't have space for any more pets. I would really like them to go to someone who already has hermit crabs and a nice setup for them or to someone who has owned them before and will set them up a proper habitat and take good care of them. They are lively and seem healthy. They only have a tiny carrier with some eco earth bedding I put in there, food they came with, seashell and a sponge piece. They really need a lot more and my mother didn't realize. If you can and will give them a good home please contact!
