Hey everyone, my name is Ace. I like to refer to myself as a spunky bachelor who loves to run, jump and then snuggle up with my skin folk for a long nap. They say I'm creeping up on 6yrs old now and I guess they could be right - I'm starting to see the gray hairs coming through - but that doesn't slow me down. I have just enough energy to stay active and keep up with any busy family.

Oh and I love car rides and traveling. I think it's the greatest thing in the world. In fact if I escape the backyard to go for a run my skin folk know my biggest weakness ... CAR RIDES!!!! They come out and start that car up and I can't resist. I HAVE to jump in and take a spin. I personally think it's tons of fun to play catch me if you can but the skin folk here say they just can't keep up so a car ride it is!

I'm a very people focused type of dog but the other dogs and cats around here aren't so bad. They like to play chase and tug and the cats are perfect snuggle buddies when the skin folks don't have time to sit with me.

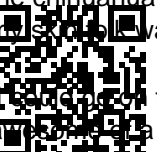

I know how to be a good boy too. I never potty in the house. I wouldn't dare get in the trash and chewing is a thing from my baby years that I never want to repeat again! I know how to listen and be patient and when the little skin folk come around I know it's best to lay down and not chase them or bump them cause they fall down real easy and that makes them cry.

A few of my favorite things are jumping fences to show off my skills, running at super speed, howling with the chihuahua's to show off our singing talent, of course car rides and snuggling up close at night to keep my skin folk warm.

So if you're talking about me all day long, that's fine. It is you that I've had a meeting to say appreciate you a little more as a complete package. Hope to see you soon!
