OVERVIEW

The Four-Week Workshop provides students with a thorough introduction to the foundations of film craft. Many students find the one-month length fits conveniently into their yearly schedules. The workshop is a full-time program. Students must be prepared to make a serious commitment to its completion.

FORMAT

The Four-Week program is structured around the production of short films of increasing complexity. Students will be introduced to the traditional concepts of shooting motion picture film and will apply this foundation of knowledge to contemporary practices of shooting with digital technology. All projects will be shot on high definition or 4K digital video cameras.

Students hands on workshops are held throughout the week. Some students are responsible for the research and classes on their own time which is held outside of class or writing and scouting for locations. The last week is devoted to shooting and editing a final film. Each student writes, directs, shoots and edits a series of short film projects of his or her own using high-def, 4k and aerial done digital video, film lighting packages, and digital editing software. Classes in directing, writing, editing, cinematography, and production cover the creative and technical demands of telling a story with moving images. All the students' films are screened and critiqued in class with the instructor.
