Duchess is a sweetheart, it breaks my heart to even consider this but I am just having an impossible time getting a place to live in my price range with her.

She's just under 18 months old unspayed, some kind of terrier mix, she absolutely loves children and will take a lot of abuse from one without so much as a growl, she prefers women over men but has never attacked anyone, she likes to run and fetch, wrestle and tug-of-war, she can jump high and dig deep, the rural life is for her, she's house broken and mostly quiet unless someone visits the door/gate/hollars hello, she's a great alarm system.

She knows all the basic commands; no, sit, stay, (go) lay down, shut up, get the ball, "ouch" (she'll stop what she's doing if you exclaim ouch), come on and bad girl/good girl.

Only drawback is she will chase smaller animals, squirrels, cats, chipmunks/birds/mice/insects.

Duchess is not an apartment dog or at least needs daily outdoors outings.

I rescued her from the side of the road out in california where she was abandoned as a 3 - 6 week old puppy.

I require no money for her rehoming, just that she is cared for better than I can.
