Interested in submitting grant procurement proposals to the US government? You will need several types of account's required by the government to submit, review, negotiate and receive federal, state and local grant monies. Our seminar and textbook applications will show you exactly who to contact, what government agency to register with and how to negotiate and receive money from your winning grant proposal. You will also learn the criteria that your submitted proposal will be required to have to be in a position to obtain different grant award monies. You will learn what successful grant submissions contain and the award winning traits common to each money award. If you are interested in creating a corporate grant procurement business and learning the skills necessary to win government contracts, contact Heritage Inc., to set up an in office training seminar or to find out more about our training DVD's and proposal writer's.
