My husband and I have fallen on very very hard times, we have two little girls, and very little income. My husband is a disabled veteran, and I take care of him and the children, and also own a small business. We will be losing our home at the end of December, and have a wonderful friend who has offered to let us put a shed on their property to turn into a cabin and stay in until we can figure something out.

We are looking for a shed that can be donated to our family so we have a roof over our heads, we can pay to have it moved. Or maybe even a camper or RV. We hate asking for help, but we have no choice. If you have a shed, camper or RV you no longer use and might be willing to help our family, please let me know :) Thank you so much in advance, and Happy!
