So I've been in Portland for about a month now and it's been quite a revelation. I'm not sure I want to stick around and have been thinking about warmer climates. However regardless of where you are going I am open to hearing your story and/or situation. Craigslist, Rideshare, Bartering & Couchsurfing are my patron saints and I have vast experience in all of the above. 36, well traveled, I have a house/farm in Southern Costa Rica in the mountains overlooking the Pacific Ocean, if you can work that into your story it's definitely up for discussion. Synchronicity guides me well, if you can relate to that odds are we will get along famously.

I don't have alot of possessions with me but a bit too much to travel on foot. I can chip for gas, I'm open to camping, sleeping outside, etc for the sake of cutting costs or just for the adventure. I have no significant other, pets or children. Essentially I'm seeking work, travel, educational and barter opportunities that resonate with where I am at this point in life. I'm experienced as a guitar instructor, Spanish/ESL tutor, laborer, landscaper, yardwork, cooking, cleaning, organizing, interior/exterior painting, I make original artwork, I make high grade colloidal silver, help with marketing/advertising/promotions, videography, customer service, restaurant work...and open to learning new skills & trades.

Where are you heading and what are you up to when you get there?
