QR Code Link to This Post General is such a willing guy. I can do anything with him. I think he is going to be a big boy to. He is 8 months old. He is not registered but is going to be an awesome horse. I have already had a very light kids saddle on him just to get him used to the feel and he took it all in stride and just loved that someone was hanging out with him. I am working on leading with his feet right now so if he were ever to get caught in a fence he wouldn't freak out and if he were ever to get out and you couldn't lead him the right way then you could lead him home by his front feet. He is a really good boy and takes everything in stride that is tossed in his direction. He is very very laid back and will do anything to please.
