We are natively, a bay area family. (My father, now passed, was a native San Franciscan.) My birthday is November 22nd, and on my 50th birthday, we walked the Golden Gate Bridge and went to a fabulous Italian dinner in San Francisco.

More than a decade later, I'm continuing the tradition of walking the Bridge; yet family members who could host a casual 15-20-person dinner have moved away.

I know it sounds goofy, but I'm looking for a home in the east bay-- Oakland or Berkeley or Richmond hills-- where we can congregate for an evening on the Saturday before Thanksgiving. (actually, every year, if it works out well)

I'd want to coordinate food (a month) in advance; likely having you coordinate and prepare some of the major components; and then have family members bring salads, etc.

Obviously November is no hurry. We've just lost our local home to host something, and I'm hoping to replace that!

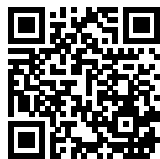

Thanks, and please plan on a place at your table to join us that evening! We are a wonderful family-- and look forward to sharing your lovely celebration room.
